Mohsin Ariff is a Solicitor at Lloyds PR Solicitors and is a highly-regarded lawyer that works predominantly on serious crime and complex fraud cases that require a sophisticated understanding. He is Police Station Accredited and also a Court Duty Solicitor and has extensive experience in representing clients at the Police Station and in the Magistrates' Court.

His workload, however, is primarily that which is in the Crown Court and concerns representing clients that have been charged with murder, rape, multi-handed drug conspiracies, complex frauds, robbery and human trafficking and servitude. With such serious cases in his remit, Mohsin consistently remains in control and calm at all times when interacting with clients and third parties including counsel and investigative and enforcement authorities.

Mohsin is appreciated by clients for his prompt and clear style in communication; he manages expectations and brings sharpness and innovation in his approach when identifying outcomes that are favourable to those instructing him. He is meticulous in his preparation and excellent at putting evidence together when building a defence for his clients. He has an unrivalled knowledge of procedure and identifies pragmatic solutions in the most complex of cases and this combined with his tactical awareness means that he is a lawyer who is consistently instructed by new and existing clients.

With enforcement agencies, he is assertive yet not forceful and quietly confident with his strategic decisions to aid and assist his clients. He has worked on a magnitude of high profile cases and his conscientious style and ability to concentrate thoroughly on the important points at issue means that he has a strong track record in achieving the desired outcome for his clients.
