Amelia started Pupillage at Lloyds PR in 2023. Prior to commencing pupillage Amelia worked as a caseworker in the Crown Court department.

As a caseworker her primary responsibilities included case management, evidence analysis and client communication. She mainly supported Ieva Giedraityte and assisted her in a variety of cases including complex crime conspiracies. She also gained experience in the Extradition Department, helping solicitors and counsel in their preparations for High Court hearings. Recently she had been working on two cases going to the Supreme Court.

Amelia attended Newcastle University and received a BA in History. She subsequently completed the GDL and the Bar Practice Course at City University.

She is an active member of Liberty and Women in Criminal Law. Outside of work she regularly competes in debate, and recently reached the final of the Inter-Inn Debate Competition, representing Gray's Inn.
